Now in these estimates could be taken as re-habe, they would seem to indicate, on the part of Lee, the most serious designs. It was reckoned that there was already in Maryland the eximmend of Breckinridge (two divisions) the whole of Ewell's old corps, under command of Gen. Early, while at least two brig-than a fortnight before. These, with the superaddition of General Longatreet's com-sumption that any such ambitious project fired them in the present invasion. And first of all, there is no evidence whatever that this force reached anything like the etrength at tributen to it by the affrighted souls of terror-scricken fugitives, who have been the suchors of most of the swelling numbers that have been given out. It has, in fact, been one of the greatest mis'nrinnes origing our of tau in-therenes of the Generals woo, up to the time

Gen. Walkee, who met the enemy in the chief engagement they have delivered on the oil of Maryland, put them at twenty thousand men; but this again, is simple refjecture. It is true that the reports of the rebel prisoners themselves have all assigned a great figure to the column of invaiou, putting it invariably at forty thousand tees, and claiming reinforcements as coming. But there is the very best reason to be-teve that these tellows lie either wettingly or in wittingly—either because they are told to of these statements, I confess, for a moment disgressed me. A rebel Lieumnant, mortally Finally, in evideoce that the enemy was not prepared for any serious attack on Washington, the weightiest circumstance of all is lefences of Wushington, and though they till show pickets at Biadensburg and on the ailroad, there is good reason to believe that that they made none whatever. The numerous little spirts of fight they have shown have been of the most feeble kind—only the rencourter of last evening reaching the propor-tions of a respectable picket fight. Without not that a week of uninterrupted plunder as afforded them.

It is too early for us yot to make up our doubt they would have been willing, and they found the upportunity—half they found Washington defenceles—in haze entered, sacked inds whether we ought to hand over the concernit of an efficient more farcical than agreal, or whether we should feel a devoit and burned it, and their expedition in this circular, or whether we should feel a devoit and burned it, and their expedition in this circular was probably a fectional field and burned it, and their efforts to keeping our latter this they appear to have confired their efforts to keeping our large torce cooped up in Washington, while the classes of the band devoted themselves to an extended by tem of pillage. They found they could do talls, and throweng two whatlines into a defonsive attitude, and this thankininess for a great deliverance. The office is enough that is droll to justify the former, were it not checked by the refliction of how much there is mortifying and bomiliating in army is planted before the lines of Petersones, where the vival lateress of the war centre; numbers icto a defensive attitude, and this but the rebels, by a merement of matchless, boldness, are able for a time to transfer the seat of war to the porth of the Potomao, are was no coubt glory enough! The President's proclamatio e 18th instant has been hunglingly trans led by the telegraph, it would appear, fo re is no designated number of meu called n. He asks for men under the law o ly 4, instant, "An act further to regolate provide for the enrolling and calling out the national forces and for other put and orders that after the expira u of fily days a draft be made to supply a! ficiencies. We have already explained the isions of this act. Its most important ares are that volunteers will be accepted r one, two, or three years, wi h hounty al wed in proportion to the term of service, ad that recruits will be assigned to the regi ents or batteries of their own States, as far practicable. This last idea is very acceptae, and will prove of great value to the reits, as it place them by the side of veter-, end will enable them to have all the vautage of their experience. It will prove crease of the rank and file, and not to the ltiplication of commissioned officers. We ave officers enough for over a million meu, nd as vacancies occur they should be radual series of promotions, so that a spirit emulation may be engendered and the sll be able to state how it will operate nuder its call. There is however no necesity of any delay; all who feel inclined to rve one year should report themselves comptly, and, if this is done in the preper lrit, Keulucky can easily avoid the addicnal draft in September.

Since the above was written we find that en, and for this aggregate there will be deucted all in excess of the last call, and also hose who have entered the unval service. We in the Journal of Monday, as our

We my e attention to the proof of this fact. Mr. Lincoln, in his juangural address.

Suppose you go to war, you cannot fight always; and, when, after much loss ou hoth and n. gain on either, you cease fighting, the identical questions as to terms of intercourse are again upon ynn. Tais country, with its maintious, belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing government, they can exercise their constitutional right of amend-the right of the people or of a portion of the moderate Republicana to open their eyes, as it jurispingence, the speak of the arottrary with government "whonever they shall grow weary" of it. We say he asserts the right of a corne of the national liberties and of the portion of the people to do this, because the lational life. In view of the alarm tho lisms mberment or overthrow of a government | sounded by an abolitionist such as Dr. Brownby revolution implies the rising of a portion | 800, moreover, what becomes of the talso an ! of the people against the rest. The extract | thatlow and miserable cry of proslavery: 344 from his inaugural address is thus identical in that the friends of Mr. Lucoiu rates principle with the extract from his speech in against the friends of the constitution and pl Congress. He reaffirms in the one what he civil licerty? It should forth in me distinctly affirmed in the other. Mr. Liucolu accordingly stands before the right of a portion of the people to dismember or overshiow the government not because it intolerably oppresses them but simply because they are weary of it. He aeserts the right of a portion of the people to dismember or overtbrow the government with or with out cause at their simple pleasure. In short, he usserts the absolute and uncondisional right of revolution. We need not say that this is snatchy. It is worse than secession, inasmuch as secession is merely the right of discretionary revolution in Stafes, whereas this is the right of discretionary revolution in any portion of the people whether organized in a separate community or not. It is the unlimited right of discretionary revolution. It ruus the principle of becession into the ground. Secession, which is the doctrine of Jeff Davis, leaves at least the States political entities, and cousists with the possibility of some kind of national laagne or confedera cy, but the unlimited right of discretion try revolution, which is the doctrine of Mr. Loncoln, unkeys the whole pollucal faction leaving no entities except the individuacitizens. It dissolves all government. It re solves society into its primary elemants. I the doctrine of Jeff Davis would make the Union a rope of eaud, as it unquestionable would, the doctrine of Mr. Lincoln would make the Union a rope of water or of air.

We have all said a great deal, hat not iso much, respecting the causelessness of this rebelllou; but, if Mr. Lincolu'e doctrine is corrie, we have all been laying stress now a matter that has nothing to do with the merite of the quantiou, for, if a portion of the peo ple have a sacred right to dismember or overthrow the government at their pleasure, o conrec their pleasure is a sufficient conse According to this doctriue, when a people rebellionaly inclined have signafed their picasure they have justified their rebellion. Indeed, ibere never can be an unjustifiable recellion or a justifiable soppression of a rebellion, according to this dectrine, whose general features Mr. Lincoln andoubtedly had in his mind when he told Mr. Mallory, that, if the Southern people are united, the war on the part of the government's not only an error but a crime. In this avowal Mr. Lincola applied his doctrine to the existing rebellion. This is Mr. Lincoln's decirine; bos it is not the doctrine of the loyal people of the country, who have poured out their blood and treasure to establish no such ruiuous and despicable heresy. And yet the establishmout of this hercay, with the overthrow of the goverument, will be the upshot of all their nnequalled sacrifices, if Mr. Liucoln is not defeated in November; for, as certain as he is reelected, he sooner or later will publicly apply very widely differs with Lincoln, who deems | 11 11 his doctrine to the existing rebellion, and acknow edge the independence of the Southern | ban the preservation of the constitution. Coufe-leracy. Whoever comprehensively and dispassionately surveys the public situation, must be convinced of this fact. It is fived. Then, patriots of the Union, shall Mr Lin urselves. Reso' e that he shall not be reelected, and execute the recolution like freen couscions of the high and mighty trust fided to you.

Daniel Webster.

As before remarked, until recensey it was the concurring opinion of the whole nation that the Constitution gave adequate powers for the emergences of any war; that with the government in competent has is there was no need for unarprion. Even many if the most prelificent leaders of the dominant abolition party, have within the last three years publicly professed the came opinion. Take forerample the following from a speech delivered in the Senate by one of its most takefored and n the Senate by one of its most talented and prominent leaders.
"I do not place the power on the ground ascumed in some quarters, that, in times or war or rehellion, the military is superior to th. civil authority; or that, in such times, what persons may choose to call necessity is higher or above the Constitution.
